

REACTOR

FLUX

($500; REACTORWATCH.COM)

Well, somebody at Reactor is a Salvador Dali fan. With its oversized, fluid face and trippy Super-LumiNova dial markings, the new Flux is a stainless-steel homage to The Persistence of Memory. But this monster timekeeper has more going for it than surrealist style – it's mad practical too. The hourglass-shaped case and curved case back combine to follow the natural contours of your wrist, so it's comfortable. The oversized dial markings are readable in darkness for up to 13 hours. Plus it's depth-rated to 100 meters, so it's boat and riding safe.

RONIXBATTALION PADDED BOARD BAG
($79.99; RONIX.TV)

Ready for that big summer trip? Not if you're missing a board bag you're not. Ronix's top-of-the-line bag, the Battalion features fin protectors, secret squirrel pockets, a shoulder strap and tons of cushy padding. And while the bag's exterior is mostly tough, military-style canvas, the houndstooth accents lend it plenty of style. Hey, a dude's gotta look good – even in airports.
